"Have you paid your taxes?" asked Tucker.

"No. What for we use our good money to pay taxes?" inquired the two men in great surprise.

"Nothing doing for you," said Tucker, waving them gracefully out of the office. The law says that no man who owes tax money to the Territory can take up public land. Go and pay your taxes first."

And the two men slunk out sheepishly.

THOUSAND HOME- STEADS READY

But Most Applicants Want Land That Has Not Been Surveyed.

One thousand and twenty-six homesteads, comprising a total of 29,989.5 acres, have been surveyed by the survey department of the territorial government and are ready for homesteading.
And it is only a little over two months since the certified copy of the amendments to the Organic Act, including the amendments to the land laws, was received from Washington.

Land Commissioner Campbell states that the appraised value of these lands is $41,230. The advertisements of the drawings for these lands have already appeared in the newspapers throughout the Territory and by the end of November the homesteads will be available for those who wish to make their homes upon the land.

Yet notwithstanding all this, Commissioner Campbell has received but eight applications for participation in the drawings. Hundreds of applications have been received but nearly all of them are for the opening up of unsurveyed tracts of land. Mr. Campbell says that there appears at present to be a sort of hysteria in regard to land and homesteads, but he expects that this will die down before long and people will look at the matter in a more sober light. Just now they are so busy applying for land that is held by other people under lease that they seem to have no time to try to get what is already available.

It also appears to be true that politics is playing a large part in the land question at present. The statement has been made that some have been mis-informing would-be homesteaders in regard to public lands, giving them information which is not true and stirring up a great deal of dissatisfaction and causing much disappointment among Hawaiians and others. This, it is apparently hoped, will react upon the Republican party. But Marston Campbell and Josh Tucker are doing all they can to counteract these misstatements and they try to be sure that no applicant goes out of the office without having first been fully informed on all points connected with his application and the land he wants to get.

Last Saturday two Hawaiians went to Deputy Commissioner Tucker to make application for certain land at Kaneohe.
Tucker remembered them as two men who had previously come to him, obtained full information concerning land at Hanalei, and then gone to R. H.
Trent, a member of the advisory board, and complained that they had been refused information by the deputy commissioner. Tucker, however, gave them all the information he could in regard to the Kaneohe lands and they asked to be allowed to make out application papers.

Tucker.

men in great surprise.

"Nothing doing for you," said Tucker,
taxes first."

And the two men slunk out sheepishly.

DRUNKEN PORTO RICAN SLASHES TO KILL

KILAUEA, Kauai, August 12.—A stabbing affray culminating in sending one man to the hospital seriously cut and another to enjoy the hospitality of Deputy Sheriff Lotia's private hostelry, occurred in the Koolau section of this plantation at an early hour Sunday morning. Two Porto Ricans were the participants, and only by the intervention of friends, was a possible murder prevented. There had been bad blood existing between the two men for some time, and on Saturday night, the one who now languishes behind the bars proceeded to procure the wherewithal to produce a firstclass "bun," secured a stiletto, and salied forth determined to settle matters a la Porto Rico. Arriving at the home of his enemy, he lost no time in getting into communication with him, whereupon the attack began.
Other inmates of the house were aroused and reached the scene in time to interrupt the proceedings and investigation disclosed the fact that while a number of ugly gashes had been made across the breast, the victim of the cowardly attack was not fatally cut. He was conveyed to the hospital where his wounds were dressed and is resting well. The would-be assassin made his escape during the excitement immediately following the affray, heading in the direction of Lihue. Officers were soon on his trail, and within a few hours after the deed had been committed he was arrested at Hanamaula by the liberal police, who had been notified of the attack. The man was brought to the station house, where he was questioned and admitted that he had been sent to kill his enemy.

He was released on his own recognizance.
